

PRELIMINARY LISTS OF MIGRANTS FOR PARTNERS IN FLIGHT
NEOTROPICAL MIGRATORY BIRD CONSERVATION PROGRAM

The following four lists of migrant landbirds are grouped according to broad patterns of breeding and nonbreeding distribution. The emphasis is on landbirds because of the thrust of the neotropical migrant bird conservation program. Other initiatives for the conservation of waterfowl and shorebirds are already underway, and a separate initiative for migrant landbirds was warranted.

List "A" contains those species that breed in North America and spend their nonbreeding period primarily south of the United States. This list contains species generally recognized as "neotropical" migrants. List "B" is comprised of those species that breed and winter extensively in North America, although some populations winter south of the United States. List "C" contains those species whose breeding range is primarily south of the U.S./Mexican border, and enter the United States along the Rio Grande Valley and where the Mexican Highlands extend across the U.S. border. These populations largely vacate the United States during the winter months. List "D" contains those tropical species whose breeding range is restricted to the Florida Peninsula within the United States; these species withdraw from Florida during the nonbreeding season.

Information on species that migrate within Central and South America is being gathered so that a list "E" of these migrants can be included in future editions of this document.

The compilation of these lists has benefited greatly from the input of many individuals: Daniel Brauning, Greg Butcher, Elizabeth Cummings, Richard Cunningham, Sam Droege, Deborah Finch, Carol Foss, Sidney Gauthreaux, Russell Greenberg, Mardy Halpin, Chuck Hunter, Richard Hutto, and G. Scott Mills. Comments and corrections should be sent to Sidney A.
